AI Readiness Review

Where the organisation actually stands on AI, and the decisions, in order, that follow.

Format
Fixed-scope review

Duration
Four to six weeks

Output
Written assessment and decision sequence

Commercial basis
Fixed fee

Sound familiar?

- Pilots in flight, and a strategy with AI on every page.
- No one can say with confidence what data the organisation holds, or who governs it.
- No one can say which decisions models already shape, or what would happen if a regulator asked.

The executive team does not need more ambition. It needs an accurate position.

How it runs

The estate as it is, not as the strategy assumes it to be.

1. Talk. The executive team, and the people who actually run the data.
2. Review. Data, governance, capability, supplier commitments and regulatory exposure.
3. Test. Findings tried with the sponsor first, so nothing arrives as a surprise.
4. Decide. A document the executive team can act on the week it arrives.

What gets reviewed

- Data
- Governance
- Capability and suppliers
- Regulatory exposure

What changes

Before		After
Opinion about AI.	→	An accurate position.
A strategy with AI on every page.	→	A sequence of decisions: what first, what depends on what, what not to do yet.
Risk nobody has stated.	→	A plain statement of the real exposure.
A defence to prepare for the board, a regulator or an investor.	→	Reasoning you can simply show them.

What this draws on

Approved at board level: organisation-wide strategies for data and AI.
Telecoms

27PB data estate across 200+ platforms, with no master records and no conventions.
